मारणे v c (म्ह S) To kill. This sense, although the first etymologically or appropriately to the root म्ह, is, popularly, neither the first sense, nor scarcely ever the sense unless the verb be determined and fixed by conjunction in the जन form with the verb टाकणे, or by construction with certain emphatic adverbs or with the noun जीव adverbially employed; e. g. मारून टाकणे, ठार मारणे, अगदी मारणे, निग्रह मारणे, जिवानशी or जिवाने or जिवें मारणे. 2 To beat, buffet, thump; to knock or hit; to strike in general whatever object with whatever instrument. 3 To overcome, vanquish, defeat. 4 To destroy the active qualities of, to kill (quicksilver, lead &c.) 5 To attack (houses, villages, travelers). 6 To rob or seize with assault (i. e. with killing or beating or personal violence). Ex. सेनें मारलें, खजाना मारला, जंडी मारलो. 7 To master, subdue, tame (affections, appetites, lusts). 8 To drive in (nails, pegs, stakes): to apply, fix, fasten, clap on (locks, rafters, fetters, anything whatever, when smartness of action or firmness of fixture is implied). 9 मारणें is much used in the large or free sense of Do or Make; and conveys always an impression of force, promptitude, smartness, or briskness. Ex. एवढें काम मारतां आणि येतां. Involving this bold sense and expressed by मारणें are the applications:—to fire (a gun); to fight (a battle); to lay on (a sword, whip, cane); to dart or hurl (a missile); to strike (a sudden assault); to strike up (a run, a dance, a stretch, strain, spurt, any smart effort); to pitch (a tent); to chuck in or toss off (a sweetmeat, a morsel, a mouthful); to gulp, i. e. to embezzle (monies or goods); to earn smartly and cleverly, to make (profit in a business); as त्या बापारांत म्यां दोनशें रुपये मारले; to utter sharply and loudly (a cry, call, shout, halloo); to make or do vehemently or eagerly (fun, frolic, freaks, extravagancies);—चल लोकर हात मार फडशा करून टाक. The above applications are not given as exhausting the sense and power of this verb. They are a few exemplifications only; for the cases in which मारणें is employed in construction with nouns to express a work or an action forcibly or smartly performed or done are, without any hyperbole, several hundred. मारणें thus is to be classed with घालणें, टाकणें, लावणें, पाडणें, हाणणें, ठोकणें, and a few others, of the large use of all which wherever vehemence or vigor, activity or animation, are to be signified, notifications appear in every sheet of the dictionary.

मोडजोहार f m C (मोडणे & जोहार lengthened from जोर. Broken force.) The weakened or decreascent tide, the tide of the quadratures, the neap : also the decreasing tide after the springs or great rise at opposition and conjunction.

मोडणी f (Verbal of मोडणे) Breaking down ; breaking up ; breaking off ; breaking or bending ; throughout the applications of the verb ; but, as a sense of especial use and currency, Breaking off the heads of a ripened field of corn, in order to the thrashing. 2 The way or course ; the line of being or acting ; the customary manner, method, fashion, style.

मोडणे v c (मुड or मुड S) To break. This is the general sense both of this verb and of the verb मोडणे, but the implications and aspects of the two verbs are very different : the difference however it is not difficult to apprehend and state. मोडणे implies Severing or sundering by some violent action (not by pounding, or by beating with anything ponderous or massive, but) by forcible application of some edged instrument, or by sudden and smart pulling. मोडणे therefore is Hewing, hacking, slashing, chopping, cleaving, riving, splitting, lopping ; also snapping, bursting, rending, ripping, plucking : whereas मोडणे is to be explained as implying Dissolution or destruction of the FORM or STATE, and whether with or without violence. मोडणे therefore is Battering, bruising, shattering, smashing, demolishing, razing, erushing, routing, scattering, disbanding, quashing, subduing, taming (i. e. reducing to humbleness or weakness), violating, infringing, stopping (causing to cease), interrupting, disturbing, suspending &c. &c., and almost throughout the senses both literal and figurative of all these words. Attentive study of the following particular significations and popular applications of this verb, and also of those appearing under मोडणे, will empower the learner to discern the sense BREAK pervading the explication of both the verbs ; to apprehend the distinction here made betwixt them ; and both to understand them in the mouths of the people, and to apply and use them upon his own occasions. 1 To break down ; to demolish, to destroy, to raze (a building). 2 To break up ; to break into its parts or elements (a machine or compacture). 3 To break by bending (काठी, वेत, लाकूड, astick &c.) :

also to break off or to bend down (कणसे, मुटे, heads of corn). 4 To break up or to break off (मैत्रकी, संगत, दुकानदारी, व्यवहार, friendships, associations, business). 5 To break up ; to dissolve, disband, dismiss (बाजार, मंडळी, a market, a council, any meeting or assembly) : to rout, disperse, scatter (an army, a crowd). 6 To break, reduce, change (मोहरा, रुपये, high monies into low) : to break down ; to reduce into the metal (नार्णी, डागिने, coins, trinkets) : to turn into cash ; to dispose of by sale (an animal or an article). 7 To break up ; to destroy, disturb, interrupt (sleep, quiet, any settled state or any proceeding business). 8 To break, destroy, displease (मन, मर्जी, one's mind, desire, purpose, pleasure). 9 To break up ; to destroy the structure, order, or fashion of (पागोटें, निर्या, any arrangement or adjustment). 10 To break up, depopulate, desolate (वस्ती, a village or a habitation). 11 To break, knock down, redargue, confute (पक्ष, मत, वाद, a side, cause, dogma, argument). 12 To spend, destroy, consume, kill (वेळ, काळ, दिवस, time, days). 13 To break the force of ; to quench, extinguish, appease, settle, remove (तहान, भूक, काळजी, संशय, भय). 14 To break ; to bring down, suppress, subdue (खोड, बसन, गर्व, खय, vices, tricks, pride, conceit). 15 To break ; to put down, quell, crush, compose, settle (an insurrection, tumult, quarrel). 16 To break, infringe, violate (laws, orders, promises, engagements). 17 To abrogate or abolish (ordinances, rites, customs). 18 To reduce to bankruptcy or to ruin, to break. 19 To efface, obliterate, extinguish, annihilate. Used in numerous applications ; and answering to Blot out, wipe out, rub out, make to cease. Pr. गाडीची वाट फेसाडीने मोडावी. 20 मोडणे, as signifying To break down into some other form or state, is contradistinguished, not only from मोडणे To break by cutting or sudden pulling, but also from फोडणे To break or burst open. See फोडणे. Again, मोडणे To break down &c. and मोडणे To cut (down, up, off) are well contradistinguished in the phrases रान मोडणे & रान मोडणे, the first importing To abolish the woody form or character of a place ; the second, To hew down or to lop the trees—the first, to destroy or remove the woodiness, the second, to hew the wood. Again, मोडणे, मोडणे, & फोडणे may be distinguished thus :—घर मोडणे To break down a house ; घर मोडणे To break up a house ; i. e. to disperse or divide the members of a household ; घर फोडणे To break through or into a house. Lastly, मोडणे, as from the Sanskrit root मुड To destroy the form or state, is but the Latin Mut-o To change.

गांव-रान-घरें मोडणे To go over or roam through a village, a wild, houses or dwellings ; with implication (generally) of unprofitable trudging. मोडून काढणे or टाकणे To foil or non-plus in argument ; to confound, confute, pose.

मोडणे vi (मुड or मुड S) That this verb मोडणे, rendering, both in the active voice and as neuter, such hourly service to the Natives, may be mastered and reduced to our own service, we should, first, study the explication and the distinction drawn out under it as active ; secondly, study in order the senses presented in that voice, noting that they (except the few which are given also here) admit of conversion into the passive voice, but not into the neuter ; thirdly, descend to consider the senses strictly neuter which follow below :—and through them all trace and discern the radical and essential sense To break down, bend, yield, fail ; to lose present standing, state, or form. 1 To break ; to break or to bend under pressure or force. 2 To break ; to suffer impairing or to decline in constitution or health. 3 To break up ; to become depopulated or desolate—a town or village : to dilapidate or fall into ruin—a house or building. 4 To break up ; to solve, separate, disperse—an associated or assembled body. 5 To break up ; to cease, discontinue, become extinct—a concern or business, an employment or means of subsistence. 6 To break, fail, become bankrupt. 7 To pass away, pass, lapse—days, time. 8 To follow after the course, style, or fashion of. Ex. सराडी भाषा संस्कृताच्या मोडणीने मोडती ही सूखेसमजून आहे. 9 To lie, be, or pass in subordinate connection with ; to follow in the compass, comprehension, or inclusion of, in the belly, body, train, or wake of. Ex. सुवर्णदुर्गाखालीं मुरुड मोडतें ; शिवधनीसुपारीच्या नांवाखालीं मुरुडची ही मोडती ; गजादि व्हटला असतां गजाच्या पोटीं सर्व वन्य पशु मोडतात. 10 To fall into oblivion or desuetude—practices, fashions. 11 To break down ; to yield, fail, sink (as under infirmities or through great fatigue). Used simply, or with येणे, and of the body or limbs. Ex. अंग मोडून येतें or हातपाय मोडून येतात The body (or the limbs) ache and fail, as if broken or generally luxated (as when fever is approaching). 12 To break ; to lose force, vehemence, intensity. Ex. रगडून पाऊस पडेल तेव्हां गरमी मोडेल. 13 As मोडणे active is contradistinguished from मोडणे, so मोडणे neuter is contradistinguished from तुडणे, which verb therefore see. मोडतें घेणे To decline, recede, fall back.

व

व The twenty-ninth consonant. The sound initially, although not exactly that of W, approaches to it so closely that this short notice of the difference will suffice; but, medially or finally, when the letter occurs in composition (with य or र or ङ, as in द्रव्य, व्रत, व्हावा), or when reduplicated (as in चव्वीस), the sound becomes,
from the prolongation of the vowel preceding, rather the thicker sound of V. By the European literati of Bengal, and, after them, by the literati
of Europe, this letter, not only in the combinations वि, वी, & वे, wherein there subsists a shade or a minimum of approximation to the sound of V, but in the whole thirteen, व, वा, वि, वी, वु, वू, व्ह, वे, वै, वी, वौ, वं, वः, has been mistreated as the equivalent of V;—W being ignored in the Sanskrit and its dependents because, probably, of its absence from the Latin. Hence we read Vachan, Vāyu, Vichār, Vīṇā, Veda, Vaidik &c.
Too compliant with this Bengal abuse, or strangely disregarding of the pronunciation in the Mará-thá country, and inobservant of the difficulty, all but insuperable, of the Native learners of English to force out a V, a class of the scholars of Bombay subject व to the misrepresentation of the English V.

That Vishnu, Veda, Gosávi, Deví, and a few other words appear thus miswritten in this dictionary is to be interpreted on the ground on which Calicut, Poona, Chandernagore &c. &c. (the corrupt representatives of काळीकोट, पुणे, चंद्रनगर) are suffered to hold their standing; viz. the necessity or the propriety of deferring to inveterately established, extensively prevalent, and invincibly sturdy English practice.

व is frequently interchanged with ओ, and, on rare occasions (although, in Sanskrit, constantly), with व. See further under वजळ.

व conj (उ) A And. Between this copulative and आणि there is a difference. They agree in joining together in one proposition, or under the same predication, two or more members or subjects; as He and I came; Day and night are alike; but where conjunction is to be effected of sentences or clauses expressing different truths, or exhibiting, the one, a cause, ground, reason &c., the other, an effect, a consequence, an accompaniment &c., there, not व, but आणि is used. Ex. मी आलों आणि तो गेला; सूर्य उगवला आणि मी उठलों; तो काळा आणि हा गोरा.

वजळ, वजळदाडा, वक, वकटा, वकटें, वकणें, वकती, वकरा See under ओ. Under these words we may introduce the remark, that many of the words which appear under ओ are also written and pronounced with व. That mode of writing and pronouncing is more conformable with etymology and with the form of spelling observed in Prákrit books, as well as with the practice of those who are viewed as the purest speakers of Maráthí; and this mode is the mode general with the vulgar and the illiterate above the Ghát. As the words are numerous, to have altogether omitted them under this letter would have occasioned much inconvenience: to have inserted them all with all their explanations, would, more inconveniently, have enlarged the dictionary. In order to attain the advantage of saving the learner some trouble of reference, and to avoid the evil of augmenting the volume, we have inserted and explained those words which are common or useful, or of which the explanation could be comprised within a line or two lines; and the remainder we have, still with regard to their place alphabetically, strung together, and marked as requiring to be sought in their order at ओ. This plan, it may be added, has been observed, with respect to minor and less systematical variations of spelling, throughout the dictionary; and, accordingly, as it is viewed in the light of saving vexation and labor, or in the light of swelling and aggravating a mass, it will be commended or condemned. It may receive both these awards; but to the party disposed to censure we would suggest, that they direct their censure, not to this our arrangement, but to the vastness, the indeterminateness, and the wild and irreducible anomalousness, as of all languages merely colloquial, so particularly and pre-eminently of this language the Maráthí.

विंगळ, विंगळा, विंगळी, विंगा This seems to be a mis-spelling, through mispronunciation, of दंगळ, दंगळा &c. which see in order. Note. This cacoëpy (of वि for द & of द for वि) is of extensive application; but as it is not peculiar to the Maráthá people, but common with them to the vulgar of most nations, it need not be noticed further. It is noticed even in this slight manner solely because it might be thought that in the case of mere Maráthí words accuracy between the mode of pronouncing with द and the mode of pronouncing with वि could not, with any positiveness, be determined. Accordingly the mispronunciations and mis-spellings of विश्वर for ईश्वर, विच्छा for इच्छा, and, vice versa, of इचार for विचार, इध्न for विध्न, and a thousand others, being plain corruptions, by the unlearned, of Sanskrit words thoroughly established and generally current in the language, are unnoticed altogether.

समोर ad & prep (स & मोहरा Front.) In front; in the fore or opposite place or part: also in front of; before or opposite; in the presence of. 2 This word may often appear to be used in the sense of Straight, direct, of a regular and right line; or in that of Straightly, directly, regularly; for it will be applied to rivers, roads, rows of trees or buildings &c.;—but it has not this sense. The speaker, in applying the word to rivers, roads, rows, and, apparently, with intention to declare their directness or straightness, invariably adopts emphatic utterance and significant manual action; and by this accordingly he means to say simply that the river, road &c. runs Right in front, straight before the beholder (i. e. necessarily in a straight or perpendicular line from him). This notice is given because this application of the word, and this misapprehension of the import of it under this application, are exceedingly common. Ex. ही नदी स० आहे or चालली; हा मार्ग स० आहे or लागला; ती दृक्पंक्ति स० आहे or लावली; ती रेष स० आहे or ओढली &c. Under this verb we may note the close correspondence which the three verbs बोलणे, म्हणणे, सांगणे bear, respectively, to the English verbs Speak, Say, Tell. बोलणे is To speak; to utter; to make vocal expression or an articulate sound. Without implication whether of any subject or sense delivered, or of any person or object addressed. बोलणे accordingly is, like the verb To speak, used of the Sounding of a musical instrument. बोलणे is also To talk; to utter words, or to hold conversation. म्हणणे is To say; to utter or express some thought or sense; to deliver or give vent to matter. Without implication, still, of any object addressed. सांगणे is To tell; to communicate a matter unto. With implication, therefore, both of a subject or sense delivered, and of a person or an object addressed. Thus बोलणे is rather an intransitive verb, म्हणणे & सांगणे are transitive. These correspondences hold very intimately, and thus should be borne in mind; yet, as the verbs To speak, to say, and to tell are, notwithstanding their different aspect and bearing, in some certain applications, mutually interchangeable, so likewise are the verbs बोलणे, म्हणणे, & सांगणे.

अवघड, कठीण, or जड सांगणे To grow on and issue fatally or painfully; to tell heavily in the end;—used of diseases, difficulties, troubles, misdoings. सांगितल्या कामाचा दिव्या भाकरीचा Descriptive of a servant or a subordinate who, having no will (or capacity of thought) of his own, does as he is bidden and eats what is given. सांगून येणे To be proffered or proposed for marriage—a female. हाय f (حي A) Life.

हाय or हा This affix is the Persian ها attached, to form the plural, to nouns signifying inanimate objects, but, in Maráthi, to territorial designations only; as देहेहाय, जिह्मेहाय, महालहाय (محلہ, ضلع, ذیلی) Villages, Zillás, Maháls. Twice or thrice indeed we find an instance of its attachment to an ordinary noun; as गुजारतहाय.

हाय An interjection upon the sudden apprehension of some exquisite (esp. corporal) pleasure. 2 An interjection upon a pang or twinge or some sudden emotion or sensation of pain. Note.

These two senses are the senses rather of the written word than of the interjection or sound हाय; for they belong to the interjection हाय under different modifications. The first is the sense of हाय as uttered with a full and continuing expiration; the second, of हाय as ejaculated suddenly and sharply. Other common ejaculations are हां, हूं, चूं, कूं, इस, उस, डम, घम, कटा.

हाय खाणें or घेणें To take alarm at; to conceive terror or apprehension or anxiety at or about. हाय खाणें or घेणें (तापाची, खाण्याची &c.)
